All-Cash, High-Profit Practice in a Thriving New England Community

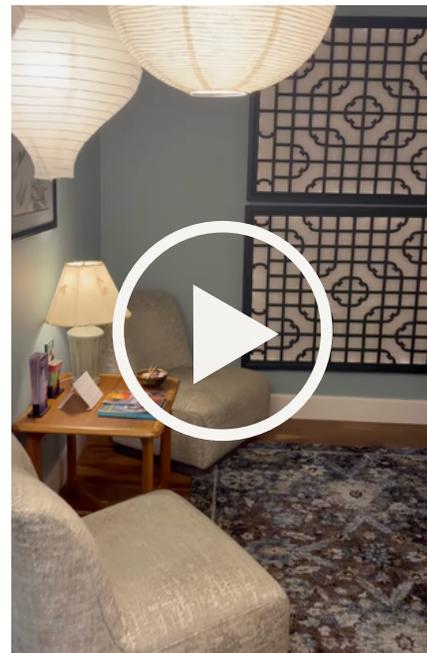

A Practice Built with Care — Ready for Its Next Chapter

Hello — I'm Mitya Schoppe, DACM, BSN, LAc., founder of Connecticut River Valley Acupuncture. CRVA has been built with an emphasis on good medicine, meaningful patient relationships, and steady word-of-mouth growth.

This is an opportunity to step into a practice that already has trust, momentum, and a strong presence in the community.

Connecticut River Valley Acupuncture

A Welcoming Clinic in a Beautiful New England Setting

The fully renovated clinic is centrally located near Dartmouth College and a major medical center, in a professional building overlooking a classic New England town green. The space includes two bright treatment rooms, a large waiting area, and an herbal apothecary. Lebanon and the surrounding Upper Valley region offer four-season outdoor recreation, excellent schools, and a strong sense of community.

Steady Referrals and a Supportive Community

The practice has grown naturally over time through word of mouth, local professional relationships, and a strong online presence. Very little active marketing is needed to maintain patient flow. With minimal competition from other acupuncturists in the area, new patients continue to find the clinic easily, while long-standing patients remain deeply connected to the practice.

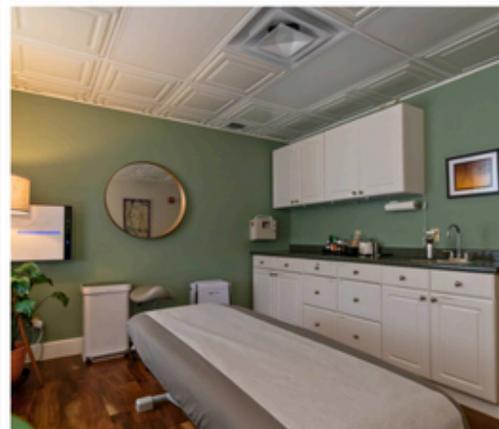

A Sustainable Schedule with Room to Grow

The current owner works four days per week and takes up to one month off each year. For a new owner, there is room to grow at your own pace – by adding hours, welcoming another practitioner, renting unused space, or expanding herbal and supplement offerings – or simply continuing the practice as it is.
